

THE BIGGEST MISTAKE
IN INVESTING...!!!

Goalkeeper has only three choices available – He can dive left, dive right, or stays at Centre.

Don't just stand there, do something!!!

A 2005 study (research of Sport Psychologist on goalkeepers) examined the actions of Strikers and goalkeepers in penalty situations. The 311 penalty kicks examined were evenly spread between the striker shooting left (32%), Centre (29%) and right (39%).

However, from the goal keeper's perspective, there was a heavy bias for goalkeeper either dive to left or right (94%) rather than stay still in the Centre (6%).

According to research, staying in the Centre gives the goalkeeper the best shot at halting a penalty kick – 33.3%, instead of 14.2% on the left, and 12.6% on the right.

Also it is observed that goalkeeper picks a side (Right or left) and dives 93.7 % of the time and just stands in the middle only 6.3 % of the time. There was a clear bias toward action

Why in that split second goalkeepers had to make a decision did so many of them decide to dive left or right?

The study explained that goalkeepers choose the appearance of action (a dive left or right) over inaction (staying central) because they don't want to look foolish in a pressure situation

Most of the investors believe that if they do not do anything, they will not outperform the Market. There is Fear of being left alone. So, most of the investors actively trading the stock and churn their portfolio frequently.

Investors want profit from every trade. If they have lost money in trading, they again start trading the stocks to get back that lost money. They always wanted to do something.
